Terrace drama

by Judy Vandergucht
MY SON! MY SON! With this emotional outburst last Thursday evening, Maria Cordeiro and son Carlos were reunited after being apart for eleven years. There wasn't a dry eye in the place as Maria greeted her son who was only 13 years old when she left Portugal for that NEW LIFE in Canada.
Maria, due to ill-health, decided not to go to the airport but many friends welcomed him and his lovely wife Luiza to Terrace AND to Canada, their new home. Neither can speak English but there were many Portuguese friends on hand to greet him in his native tongue. It was at Maria's residence on Scott that the tearful re-union took place.
That re-union ended eleven years of waiting to see her son and three years of concerted efforts to bring Carlos into Canada.

Mother reunited with son after 11 year immigration battle

When Maria and her husband came to Canada in 1966 they had no idea that they wouldn't see their sons after they settled in Kitimat and made their home there. When they tried to gain entry into Canada for Carlos they discovered that first, he would have to serve his mandatory five years service with the Portuguese government. What a blow! Maria was heartbroken and if that wasn't enough grief, then had to move to Terrace - alone. She resigned herself to the fact that in five years she would be able to see Carlos again. Maria worked hard and established herself in her present home on Scott. Then life dealt another harsh blow - she was diagnosed as a diabetic and the doctor advised her to quit working. For someone like Maria who had always worked hard, this was a terrible shock. All the time she consoled herself with the fact she would one day see her son Carlos.

It was a year ago that friends realized that Maria's health was being affected by the strain of trying to bring her son to Canada. Several years had passed and efforts to bring Carlos had failed. It was obvious to those who loved Maria that she was dying inside. She had almost given up hope. In September Iona Campagnolo was contacted again and this time Maria's deteriorated state of health was mentioned (at this time Maria's eyesight was failing also) and the government was urged to allow Carlos into the country on humanitarian grounds. After a few more contacts with the Minister of Immigration the order in council was approved which would allow Carlos into the country to look after his sick mother. Unfortunately, due to the delay, Carlos' medical records had expired and he once again had to go through all the red tape in Portugal.

Maria waited patiently but the wheels of government turn very slowly and once again Maria started to lose hope. With the help of a friend a phone call was made to Portugal. It was 2:00 a.m. Carlos was roused from his bed by a neighbour and Maria was able to talk to her son for the first time in eleven years. Although overcome by emotion, she was able to determine that Carlos had taken his medical examination again and would probably come to Canada soon.

Maria sat in the chair her hands clasped to her chest - tears welling in her eyes. A friend had told her that today her son was arriving... The phone call - he is here! A cry of anguish for eleven years of pain, and then a cry of joy. Maria's wish had finally been realized.

Terrace's former Library building suffered some fire damage Saturday night when a fire at 3226 Kalum Street, reported at 9:09 p.m. totally destroyed two sheds in the rear and partial damage to a B.C. Hydro office trailer adjacent. Terrace District Fire Department is investigating the cause of the blaze.

Kitimat RCMP report

Kitimat RCMP report the Mathias station wagon, involved in a single vehicle crash last week, was victim to vandals who stripped two wheels and several tools while it awaited towing from its Dyke road location.
Vandals also hit a pick-up truck in Cablecar subdivision owned by Lyle Rauner. Four wheels and several engine parts were stripped off the 1962 truck.
A pair of bicycles were stolen; a red one from Lilloet Street owned by John Browning, and a blue ten-speed from no. 11-20 Clifford owned by Perry Bevotte.
A charm bracelet was found and may be claimed by the owner at the Public Safety Building.
A thirty foot fifth wheel trailer was stolen from the Anderson Creek area on June 5.
A single vehicle accident on Haisla caused about $1000 damage to a vehicle owned by Harold Chisolm of Kitimat, Thursday.
Chisolm apparently struck a light-standard at the intersection of Haisla and Kuldo Streets. Charges have been laid.

Kitimat's can-can line struck for the second time at the Kitimat C.B. Radio Club's 2nd Annual Rain Dance held at the Legion Saturday night. About 150 people turned-out at the affair which boasted fine entertainment, local and contracted, as well as a dinner-dance evening. Travellers from Toronto, McKenzie, Vancouver Island and winner of the Farthest Travelled C.B.er was from Wabush Labrador, all helped fill the hall with excitement.
One trophy that was awarded was the Oldest C.B.-er, which went to 63 year old Red Hackle.

Kincolith contract let

A contract for $497,767 to construct a new breakwater at Kincolith, on the mouth of the Nass River, has been awarded by Public Works Canada to H. B. Contracting Ltd., of Surrey. The announcement was made Friday, June 9 by Skeena M.P. and Minister of State, Iona Campagnolo.
"Under the project", she explained, "the company will construct 2 floating breakwaters, 123 and 170 meters long, and will dredge a basin to serve as a harbour for the mooring of local vessels."
Work will commence immediately on the project, and should be completed by the end of summer.

Dianne Barbetti
Kitimat Marlin Swim Club presented their swimmer-of-the-year award Saturday to 12 year old Diane Barbetti. This prestigious award honors efforts showing outstanding achievement and consistent devotion of a swimmer.
Diane has already accumulated 19 trophies in her career with the Marlins which started in 1973. "She has won almost all age group trophies she has competed for," say her trainer and coach.
Pre-qualification for the national swim meet is Diane's next big hurdle. Swimming a 1:21.6 - 100 metre breaststroke, (national qualifying time in a 25 metre pool is 1:23.9), she already has a 2 second lead on attempting to become "the Best" by pulling a national win.
This national swimming competition which she is looking forward to is only 'B' string, Division 2's, yet is a once-in-a-lifetime accomplishment.
The club met for the last time this season Saturday when the award was presented by coach Lisa Wagner.
The club starts training again in September and will hopefully host the largest contingent of swimmers that Kitimat has ever had, says trainer Hans Wagner.

Mickey Johnson case settlement

According to unconfirmed reports, a settlement of the long-standing dispute between Mickey Johnson and Mickey Johnson Recreations Ltd., of Terrace and the Corporation of the District of Terrace has finally been reached.
The settlement is reported to have been signed in Terrace, Friday.
Johnson is said to have agreed to apply for construction of a new building in compliance with City by-laws, to post a letter of credit relative to the construction and occupancy of the new building, and the City of Terrace has agreed, in general, to consider Johnson's application without prejudice.

Unconfirmed reports also suggest the dispute has now apparently been resolved, all existing actions between the two parties dismissed without costs, and both sides appear to be generally satisfied.

Least help from Canada Council

The Vancouver Symphony Orchestra is presently receiving the lowest percentage of Canada Council budget support of any orchestra in Canada, VSS President Gilbert C.P. Gray announced today.
A VSS brief being presented at the June 12 through 14 meetings of the Canada Council, at which the 1976-79 orchestra grants will be authorized, points out that in 1976-77 the level of budget support for the VSO was 15.9 percent, the lowest percentage received by any major orchestra in that year.
Support for orchestras other than Vancouver and including the Tonto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Quebec, Edmonton, Calgary and Atlantic orchestras averaged 22.0 percent.
"The level of support we receive from the Canada Council continues to decrease each year," Gray pointed out. "Our 1977-78 grant from the Canada Council was $450,000, and on the basis of our forecast, this will represent a further decrease to 14.3 percent of our operating budget."
"We are asking Canada Council to bring our level of support up to 18 percent, which certainly seems to be a reasonable level when one looks at the support received by other orchestras."
An 18 percent level would still mean that the VSO is receiving less than the average support received by the Montreal and Toronto orchestras, to which the VSO is comparable in terms of musical stature.

Gray pointed out that the VSO's current operating budget is roughly equal to the average 1976-77 budgets of the Toronto and Montreal symphonies; yet the VSO's current Canada Council grant is $210,000 less than those received by Toronto and Montreal for the 1976-77 season.
"We have done everything possible to maximize our revenue from other sources."
Our subscribers number 10,000 - to our knowledge, the largest subscription audience in the world. Last season, 98.8 percent of our available seats were sold.
"In the past season, 50.9 percent of our operating budget came from ticket sales - the highest percentage generated by any major orchestra. The average for the other orchestras was 41.9 percent."

Terrace-Thornhill plans for S.P.C.A.

Support from all persons concerned with the care of animals large and small is earnestly solicited for the coming meeting at Thornhill Junior Secondary School, June 13 at 7:30 p.m. when an attempt will be made to organize a local branch of the SPCA.
SPCA representative, Mr. Leech, is flying in from Vancouver to assist in the organizing process. He will also be showing a film on the society. Kitimat SPCA branch representative Mr. Leblanc, and Gordie Howe will also be in attendance.
The need for a local branch to prevent cruelty to animals, deal with the proliferation of abandoned dogs, cats and other animals and to assist in other problems relating to animals varying from cattle to kittens has been more than proven over the past six months. The news media are also invited to attend this meeting.

"Our fund drive is already ahead of last year's totals. We're doing everything we can and it's time for Canada Council to give us more support. It appears that we are being penalized for being successful."
"We want to stress that we support the Canada Council as a non-political body."
"The problem is unless we are brought up to the level of support received by other orchestras, the future of the Vancouver Symphony as a major Canadian cultural entity is in serious jeopardy."

Legion is busy

Terrace Branch 13, Royal Canadian Legion, held the first of its monthly Building Lottery draws on May 27th. Lucky winner was Laurie Mallet.
Next draw to be made will occur Friday, 30 June. The Legion Annual Picnic will take place Sunday, June 25 at the Hart Farms, starting at Noon, and will be slanted mostly for the kiddies. All paid up Legion members, and their families are eligible to attend.
An estimated 500 people turned out Sunday, June 4, to the Legion Ladies Auxiliary smorgasbord. The same day a second successful Legion function - the Annual Gold tournament - was also held, making that day a memorable one for Branch 13.

Maurice Evans of 1621 Gyrfalcon Kitimat spent about one-half hour landing this 48 pound Spring near the pumphouse on the Kitimat River Friday at 7 p.m. Maurice used the ever-catching Spin-N-Glo lure.

Editorial

These days the News wire services are full of expose-type articles in the RCMP. Hardly a week passes without fresh "horror stories" of barn burnings, break and entries and even (last week) political intrigue to ensure the defeat of an Abbottford mayoralty candidate.

When I come across stories like these, I think back to the bitter morning when a young, tall Mountie arrived at a house in the sub-arctic to rush a young father whose wife had given premature birth to a child so he could get to hospital, hopefully, while it was still alive.

My mind flies back to those days, too, on the shores of James Bay when Corporal Davies made his annual tour of inspection by dog team, up the treacherous coast of James Bay from Moose-Factory past Hannah Bay, East Main, Old Factory, Fort George, Roggan River, Little Whale, Great Whale (into Hudson Bay) and on to Port Harrison - then, back the same way to Moose Factory. Two thousand miles - by dog team! At each stop, first, the Cree Indian then, farther North, the Eskimo settlements. Cpl. Davies would act as magistrate, registrar of births, stillbirths, marriages and deaths. He would deliver the mail, settle community disputes, O.K. relief and welfare payments in goods and vouchers on the Hudson's Bay Company post stores. Not infrequently he would evacuate a mental case or escort a body and sometimes a seriously ill patient to the nearest hospital.

My mind flies back, too, to the time when nine Eskimo bodies were discovered by the eccentric Rev. George Neilson, on the ice and snow of the Belcher Islands, and the RCMP flew in and took charge of the situation in a most humane and understanding way. The misguided perpetrator of the multiple killings, Peter Sala could not have hoped for a more humane escort than that provided by the members of "G" Division.

I think back to the drowning of a 12-year old boy in the frigid waters of an Arctic coast town. Hour after hour the Mounties wrestled with a small boat probing the waters for the body. Meanwhile RCMP "frogmen" dove, tirelessly and methodically, into the treacherous currents, assisting with the search, while overhead other members of the force strained their eyes and risked their lives in a helicopter - until the body was found. What parents could have asked for a more thorough effort and the risk of so many lives, to find their son's small body? And all without charge!

Then, I remember also, the midnight in January when, with the thermometer 'way past thirty below zero, and the winds swirling the snow beneath the eerie flickering of the Northern Lights, the muffled cries of an old man were heard coming from the pit beneath an outdoor privvy at a Northern settlement. Neighbours called the Mounties who, under the most difficult and unpleasant circumstances imaginable, got a rope beneath the armpits of the half-submerged gentleman, and took him in their police vehicle - a ghastly mess - and delivered his foul smelling, but still living carcass to the village hospital, for thawing, cleaning, and reconditioning!

That time a polar bear attacked a young lad behind the Fire Hall at Churchill, Manitoba and a single shot by a "Mountie" felled the bear. A fight broke out in the Legion. Who was called to bring peace and order? The local RCMP, of course. Two canoes set out from an island at the mouth of the Nelson and Hayes River, in July. A sudden squall comes up, and the canoes, with the men aboard, can no longer be seen by two men on shore. Who is called in for the month long search, in dangerous shoals, with millions of attacking black flies day after day? Yes, the Mounties, of course.

And I think of the Mountie, years ago, at another Northern settlement, returning from patrol. His wife runs out to greet him as he steps off his dog sled. Immediately the dogs turn on her and before he can stop them, she is lifeless on the red snow at his feet.

I think of a young Mountie, ill prepared for the rigours of the country, after World War II, his mind shattered by the experience being taken out under restraint, from the isolation of Eskimo Point.

And I see, passing before my eyes - as I read the unkind statements of lawyers and politicians in this week's newspapers - of a jolly, carefree red headed Irish-born Mountie I once met going into the North - and six months later, the broken 'old' man that returned.

Today, as an editorial in another paper describes it, this same Force has to deal with people who "... bait them with obscenities and the cliché cries of 'Pig!' and 'Oink-oink!' who break the laws of speed and weaving, drink beer and hard liquor to excess at the wrong places and times, bug the devil out of ordinary citizens and swaggar and ride as if they own the world." - Yet they, the RCMP "boys", must never lose their 'cool' and their patience!

Our laws today are far too often on the side of the criminal; too seldom on the side of those who are sworn to protect society from that criminal.

And - as the same newspaper article asks, "When the supply (of recruits) can not be sustained because there is no honor or satisfaction in being a policeman, - what then?"

Shelford praised by Victoria newspaper

The Independent MLA by the Review Victoria Bureau

VICTORIA - B.C.'s most independent MLA has come up with an idea which would make him and other independent members feel more comfortable in the house - and restore to the legislature the power and dignity it has lost over the years.

Cyril Shelford, the silver-headed Soledad MLA from Skeena who has sat in the house for 23 years, says that if real debate is to take place in the house party discipline has to be broken and free votes must take place on all legislation except financial bills.

He says right now debate in the house is a charade since everybody knows the outcome before the members sit down in the house to debate.

"Debate has lost its meaning," he said. "That's why we get all this nattering back and forth. The members know they're not going to change anything so they just give the other guy a hard time."

The average MLA, he said, goes in to speak to Hansard not to the members and unless we make some real changes, debate will always be meaningless.

He said the real decisions are made by the cabinet and because of the increasing length of sessions, cabinet ministers are cooped up in the legislature, cut off from the ideas of the people they serve and dependent on the advice of bureaucrats.

"I think the founders of the parliamentary system would turn over in their graves if they knew how the system had developed," he said.

He said the people in the countryside are disgusted with the performance of parliament and that the changes he is advocating could be implemented without any constitutional changes.

"It's just a habit we've grown into," he said, "and we can change that habit through education."

Premier Bill Bennett has said he is sympathetic to Shelford's ideas, but believes that the Royal Commission on electoral reform could handle such changes.

Shelford says the idea is worth pursuing, but believes that house reform is outside of the terms of reference of the commission.

"But I will appear before them," he said.

He said when he first started in the legislature, the house sat for six weeks to two months per year. Now it's up to six to eight months per year.

"The members should be out in the countryside seeing what's going on," he said.

"That way they come back with a balanced view and are not totally dependent for information on bureaucrats."

He said if the legislature was really interested in changing all it has to do is appoint three laymen to a commission, make them sit through one session and call for a report one week after the end of the session so the process is still fresh in their minds.

"That would change things," he said.

He said opposition to the change in party discipline would come from the government since it doesn't want to share power and from an opposition party which thinks it will soon take power.

"But out in the countryside 95 percent of the people would like to see the change because that way the members could more accurately reflect the wishes of their constituents."

Shelford has called for a four member, all-party to examine house reform.

Contract let for Rupert grain dryer

Barnett-McQueen Company Limited of Richmond has received a contract worth $474,000 to install a new drier in the Canadian Government Grain Elevator in Prince Rupert, it was announced Thursday.

"The original installation was an experimental prototype which did not prove effective," explained Skeena M.P., Iona Campagnolo. "Work on the project should be completed by the end of October, and when the new drier is operational, it will significantly improve the export capacity of the Prince Rupert Grain Elevator."

"I also want to add, at this time, a word of congratulations to the grain handlers, longshoremen, and all other associated with the grain terminal whose extraordinary efforts made possible the record shipment of 4.8 million bushels of grain through the Port of Prince Rupert in the month of May," she said.

So far this year, 30 ships have loaded grain at the Government Elevator, and Prince Rupert is currently handling close to 16 percent of Canada's west coast grain exports, despite the fact it has only 8 percent of the west coast grain handling capacity.

The contract for the new drier was awarded by Public Works Canada on behalf of the federal Department of Agriculture, and is part of the ongoing program of improvement to the grain elevator.

The project is being carried out under the joint supervision of Public Works Canada and Sandwell and Company, a Vancouver engineering firm which has done the preliminary design and engineering studies.

"Just six months old and already you're hopelessly in debt."

Ottawa Offbeat

by Richard Jackson

Ottawa - Had enough of politicians pleading for "understanding of Quebec aspirations?"

Enough of successive Liberal Prime Ministers, Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, Lester Pearson and Pierre Trudeau - because their party power base always has been French Canada - holding the rest of the country ransom to the interests of Quebec?

Enough of English Canadian leaders trying to rationalize, even justify the excesses of Rene Levesque on grounds that with "tolerance" he might be persuaded to change his mind?

Enough of all the political appeasers who to keep the federal-provincial peace at any price are willing to accommodate Quebec with special concessions of all kinds even including constitutional changes?

Then give a cheer for a politician who is up off his knees and calling for use of "the mailed fist" against Rene Levesque "the implacable enemy of all for which we Canadians stand."

He is Sidney Handelman, former member of Ontario Premier William Davis' Cabinet, and still Conservative MP for the Ottawa regional riding of Carleton.

Handelman, until recently the Eastern Ontario spokesman in the Davis Cabinet, has refused to attend a reception the Premier gave in Toronto for the visiting Rene Levesque.

He declined - publicly - because, he said, Levesque "is an enemy of the state dedicated to breaking up my country" and because "Quebec separatism and the partition of Canada is not a fit matter for civilized cocktail party chit-chat."

Sidney Handelman has had enough of the "velvet glove treatment" so far accorded Rene Levesque and his Quebec separatists.

What he calls "reverse discrimination" - the glorifying of the French Fact and denigration of the English as bigots - has gone far beyond acceptance.

And he wants retaliation. He wants Ontario and English Canada to dish out the same sort of abuse and insult that they have been so meekly taking from Quebec.

Sidney Handelman lives in Eastern Ontario, within sight of the Catineau Hills on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River, and has watched his people "take it" from the French.

Long since time, he says, for "retaliation."

He says there is "deep anger" in Eastern Ontario - and "a rising tide of English separatism that is frightening" - against what he calls "an iron curtain" being rung down by the Levesque government along the Quebec border.

He ticks off these flash-points of anger: -Ontario workmen have been all but barred from jobs in Quebec while Quebec workers stream across the Ottawa River by the thousands to jobs in Ontario.

-Ontario truckers find it difficult - fines and the impounding of vehicles - to operate in Quebec even on short trips.

-Small business in Ontario has problems all but insurmountable in securing contracts from school boards, municipalities or any organizations supported by provincial funding in Quebec.

-The delisting of Ontario wines by the Quebec Liquor Board.

-Another inequity has been the Quebec no-fault auto insurance plan paying all Quebecers' claims regardless of responsibility while requiring Ontario drivers to prove their case.

In no instance has Ontario retaliated. So who outside of Eastern Ontario cares? Not many, admits Sidney Handelman, not even in some other parts of Ontario.

But they will, he warns, they will if English Canadian leaders remain on bended knee in postures of appeasement to Rene Levesque.

All of Canada ultimately will feel the back of his hand unless he is stopped dead in his separatist tracks.

Letters to the editor

Hydro sub-station signs needed

Almost every day there are trucks arriving in Terrace from all parts of Canada & the U.S.A. with goods and material for the extensive expansion that is taking place at B.C. Hydro's Skeena substation.

A good number of these drivers have never been in NorthWestern B.C. before. Yet B.C. Hydro in all its wisdom, sees no reason to post signs to show them the way.

Three tractor trailer units with pup trailers arrived today with over 40,000 gallons of transformer oil. Fortunately they were C.B. equipped, and "Pebbles" was able to radio instructions to them on how to find their way.

Following up on these recurrent requests for directions, she phoned B.C.

Hydro to ask why no signs were posted. Their Mr. Pollock replied that "none were needed." With so much money being spent on this project, one would certainly think a few dollars could be found for a few signs.

"How to Save energy" kit free from Hydro

B.C. Hydro is helping home builders and remodelers to plan for energy efficiency with a newly-published information kit.

Packed with 'how-to' information and energy-saving ideas, the kits are available free at all Hydro district offices and by mail from B.C. Hydro Energy Services Division, 1045 Howe St., Vancouver V6Z 2B1.

The kits contain six booklets dealing with: the why and hows of energy conservation generally; heating systems and insulation; kitchen and laundry planning; lighting and wiring; water heating; and finally, solar energy as a source of heat.

Rim Newton, manager of Hydro's energy division, points out that energy efficiency helps preserve the province's resources as well as providing comfort and economy in individual homes.

Newton recommends that energy-efficient ideas should be considered at the planning stage of building or remodelling, as alterations at a later date may be difficult and expensive.

Cost-of-operation tables throughout the kit indicate the savings to be expected from improved energy efficiency.

The booklet on solar energy contains the latest available information on this rapidly-developing technique.

Youth to represent Canada in Argentina soccer play

Even though "Team Soccer Canada" was eliminated in competition leading to the World Cup in Argentina, Canada will be represented at the quadrennial sports classic. Fourteen-year-old Merle Beck of Surrey, B.C., will compete for Canada at the seven-nation Coca-Cola World Soccer Skills Contest, to be held concurrently with the World Cup, at the Ferroviario Oesta Soccer Club Stadium in Buenos Aires on Tuesday, June 20. Merle was accorded the honor for winning the Canadian phase of the Soccer Skills Contest, organized by the Canadian Youth Soccer Association, in Montreal last September. Co-sponsored by Coca-Cola Ltd. and Adidas (Canada) Ltd., the Skills Contest since 1971 has promoted soccer among young Canadians while identifying Canada's brightest young players.

Three previous national winners—Paul Roe (1971 and 1973), Mike Kopchynski (1972) and David Tippet (1974)—went on the play for the Canadian National Youth Team. Roe now plays for the Toronto Metros of the North American Soccer League. Participants are judged in six categories: juggling with one foot, juggling with alternating feet, juggling with the head, passing, dribbling and goal-scoring. No stranger to international competition, Merle played exhibition games last summer in West Germany, England and Holland with the team he captains, the Surrey United Beavers.

"Anything worthwhile entails hard work," the Grade 9 student says. And that hard work—two games and two practices each week, plus an additional one-hour practice each day—paid off with "the proudest day in my life" when Merle won the Canadian finals last September.

Merle leaves for Buenos Aires with his father and coach, Gus Beck, on Friday, June 16. He'll spend two days visiting New York City before flying to Argentina. There, in addition to the competition, Merle will attend two World Cup matches including the final on June 25, and a banquet hosted by Coca-Cola on June 24.

Merle will stay at the Elbar Hotel, Florida 238, Buenos Aires, from June 19-25.

Belmont winner Affirmed after head-to-head run

NEW YORK (AP) — Laz Barrera, trainer of the Triple Crown champion Affirmed, had a slight problem when he went to take another look at the 110th running of the Belmont Stakes.

"I sat down to watch a rerun of the race and I came up with a migraine," Barrera said Sunday.

That's the kind of race this year's Belmont was. A moment of high drama for those who watch. A pressure cooker for those involved. "I never recall in my life a race like that one was," said Barrera after Affirmed's head victory over Alydar. "Even if I would have lost it, it would have been the greatest race I ever saw."

For a time Saturday, it looked like Affirmed might lose it.

But Affirmed, ridden by Steve Cauthen, did not give up, repelling a blistering challenge by Alydar to become the thoroughbred racing's 11th winner of the Triple Crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

By a total of 1 1/4 lengths Alydar became the first horse to finish second in all three races.

"I'll tell you something," said Barrera. "Alydar is a great horse and there is no shame in the way he got beat because he ran a winning race."

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

A winning race against any three-year-old but Affirmed, who now has beaten Alydar in seven of nine meetings.

"If Alydar and Affirmed keep on running, I guarantee you John Velthe (Alydar's trainer) will have a bigger ulcer than I got. It will be a lot of years before you'll see two horses closer together."

And another Affirmed-Alydar duel is possible in the 1 1/4-mile, $100,000-added Travers Aug. 19.

The Cuban-born trainer also said should Affirmed put back the 30 or 40 pounds he has lost since the May 6 Derby it is possible he would next start July 2 in the 1 1/4-mile Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park. Seattle Slew went to the Swaps after winning the Triple Crown last year and suffered the only loss of his career.

"Affirmed is in the position to win more money than any other horse," said Barrera.

If a Kentucky Derby winner runs in the Swaps, $150,000 is added to the base

Baseball fans got a lot of entertainment for their money 14 years ago tonight—in 1964—when New York Mets and San Francisco Giants played for 10 hours and 23 minutes by the clock. The Giants won the first game 5-3 in 2 1/2 hours, but the Mets held out for 23 innings before losing the second game 8-6.

REMEMBER WHEN ...

Citation, the world's first racehorse to win $1 million, set a world record at that time of 93.6 seconds for the mile 20 years ago today—in 1950—while winning the Golden Gate Mile in California. The bay five-year-old had been out of racing all of 1949 with several injuries. He retired the following year, after winning the Hollywood Gold Cup.

REMEMBER WHEN ...

The great feud between Babe Ruth and Boston Braves ended 43 years ago today—in 1935—when the Sultan of Swat was given his unconditional release and so was able to retire after a spectacular 22 years in baseball.

purse of $200,000.

The chestnut son of Exclusive Native already has earned $1,133,807 in 16 races—he picked up $110,580 from the $184,300 Belmont purse—and owner Louis Wolfson has said Affirmed will race as a four-year-old.

The Triple Crown came to the 54-year-old Barrera on his second attempt and to the 18-year-old Cauthen on his first try.

WENT INTO LEAD

Cauthen sent Affirmed into the lead at the break and after the first quarter-of-a-mile he held a 2 1/2-length lead over Alydar, who was third behind Judge Advocate.

But after Affirmed ran the first half mile in 50 seconds—"We were going nice and slow early," said Cauthen—Velasquez had to move Alydar in a bid to pressure Affirmed.

With a quarter-of-a-mile to go, Affirmed held a head lead over Alydar and at the finish it was still a head. What happened in between was one of the most exciting stretch duels in thoroughbred racing history.

Cauthen thought Alydar took the lead with about three-sixteenths of a mile to go and Velasquez agreed. But Barrera said he did not think Alydar ever got in front.

Belmont Park was bedlam as the rivals battled bitterly over those final three-sixteenths of a mile. The other three starters, Darby Creek Road, Judge Advocate and Noon Time, who finished in that order, were not out of sight but they certainly were out of mind.

Affirmed paid a winning mutuel of $3.20 to his backers in a crowd of 65,417.

2nd. Dane McCallum (Ford P.U.)
3rd. Ken Grange (Jeep CJ2A)

The Kermode Four Wheelers would like to thank the following persons who braved the dust to help out for the day: Al Reynolds-Pit Boss, Wayne Adams- Starter, Shaunce Kruisselbrink and Steve Sabell-Finish line Judges, and Steve Hanna-Timer. We would also like to thank Cedarland Tire for the use of their Service Truck, and Wally Lefebvre for the use of his Van as an Announcing Truck, and Dog N Suds (advertisers).

The next scheduled event will be a hill climb, in July the 16th. Location will be announced at a later date.

JOGGERS DEALT A BLOW

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Scientists at University of California have found that jogging 25 miles a week does not reduce the risk of heart attack—in pigs. For a full year, pigs ran on a treadmill without improving their circulation. Arteries of the jogger pigs turned out to be no less clogged than those of sedentary pigs.

DON'T BLAME PETS

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Multiple sclerosis is not a contagious disease. That is one reason there's no firm evidence that small dogs and cats transmit MS to their owners, says Drs. John Adams a physician, and Harold Snow, veterinarian, of University of California. Some reports have mentioned suspicions linking house pets with the nerve disease.

Renault dominates LeMans

LE MANS, France (AP) — The French Renault factory won a $4-million gamble Sunday when drivers Didier Pironi and Jean-Pierre Jaussaud took the 46th Le Mans 24-hour endurance auto race.

Another Renault turbocharged speedster finished fourth, driven by French rally stars Jean Ragnotti and Guy Frequelin, to round out the Renault triumph over the favored German Porsche team.

Pironi and Jaussaud finished about 65 kilometres ahead of the Porsche 936 turbo driven by Belgian Jacky Ickx, who failed in his attempt to become the first five-time winner here, with Bob Wolek of France and Porsche development racing driver Jurgen Barth.

Another of the trouble-plagued Porsche speedsters came in third, wheeled by the leading American distance racing pair of Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood, both of Jacksonville, Fla. Haywood shared the winning Porsche with Ickx last year when the first big Renault effort failed dismally, all four cars suffering engine blowups.

The race was marked by a series of massive accidents on the long back straight of the 13.63-kilometre circuit, where cars top 250 kilometres an hour. But the only serious injury was to French driver Christian Debiass, who was taken to hospital Sunday morning by helicopter with a fractured skull and chest injuries.

INJURED AT END

Pironi hurt his leg as he was getting out of the car in a swarming mass of fans at the finish line. He collapsed with exhaustion moments later and had to be revived with oxygen before going on to the victor's balcony.

The winners covered 5,033.6 kilometres, the first time the 5,000-kilometre figure has been cracked in the 24-hour race since the track was modified in 1972.

Survival Record

FUERTH, West Germany (Reuter) — The longest surviving women's track and field record was broken Saturday when Grazyna Rabstzyn of Poland ran the 100-metre hurdles in 12.48 seconds.

The previous record of 12.59 seconds had stood since East German Annelie Ehrhardt set the mark at the 1972 Munich Olympics. Rabstzyn, 25, finished fifth in the event at the 1976 Montreal Olympics because of illness but she won the 100-metre hurdles at the World Cup meet in Dusseldorf last year.

27 min. 10,000m

VIENNA (AP) — Henry Rono of Kenya set a world record in the 10,000-metre run Sunday when he covered the distance in 27 minutes, 22.47 seconds, exactly eight seconds below the previous world record held by Samsu Kimombwa, also of Kenya.

Tono was invited for the opening of a new synthetic track on Vienna's cricket field and was overcast and not too warm, just right for the world record attempt Rono had said he would undertake as he arrived Saturday.

Cauthen best?

NEW YORK (AP) — John Veitch, the trainer of perennial runner-up Alydar, doesn't believe the difference in Affirmed's Triple Crown victory was jockey Steve Cauthen.

After Alydar, ridden by Jorge Velasquez, was outdistanced by a head Saturday—making him the first horse to finish second in all three Triple Crown races—Veitch admitted he didn't know what causes the difference in the two horses' performances, but said it wasn't the jockeys.

He knew what the difference was, though: "Three inches."

Affirmed was ridden by 18-year-old Cauthen, the youngest jockey ever to win the Triple Crown, but Veitch stood by his own jockey.

"Jorge Velasquez is the best jockey in America," said Veitch, who trained Alydar for the legendary Calumet Farm, owned by Admiral and Mrs. Eugene Markey. "Maybe if Jorge hadn't been riding, we'd have been beaten by three lengths."

Veitch was asked what went through his mind as he watched the horse he saddled being beaten by Affirmed for the seventh time in nine meetings.

"What can go through your head?" he asked. "I was just hoping we had the better horse today, but we didn't. What was the difference? The difference was three inches, that's all I can tell you."

Veitch said Velasquez rode Alydar strictly to the game plan, although the first half-mile was relatively slow—50 seconds.

"It was very much as I had expected," Veitch said. "Jorge knew we couldn't let Affirmed get too far ahead, and he didn't."

Lions

release . .

COURTENAY, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia Lions released five players Saturday to reduce their Canadian Football League training camp roster to 52. The club cut linebackers Greg Blankenship and Brian McEntee, receiver Mike Neely, offensive tackle Tony Rice and cornerback Pete Rome. Receiver John Tietzen was released Friday afternoon.

The Lions must cut two more players by noon Monday, but head coach Vic Rapp indicated that those final decisions may rest on the outcome of trade talks with other CFL clubs.

"There may be a surprise or two," he said. "We're talking to a couple of other clubs right now."

Quarterback Jerry Tagge missed Friday's workouts with a bruised right foot, but was expected to be ready for the Lions opening exhibition game in Vancouver Tuesday against Montreal Alouettes.

Mosport runs Indy cars and causes Club dispute

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — A dispute that arose Friday over the running of Sunday's race for Indy-type cars really wasn't a threat to the running of the event, Dick King, president of the United States Auto Club (USAC), said Sunday.

"The FIA permit had nothing whatever to do with whether our cars would run in this event," King said in the aftermath of an unsettled weekend of car racing. "So far as the United States Auto Club is concerned, we had already issued the track a sanction."

The problem was created Friday when Robert Langford, a track inspector for the governing International Automobile Federation (FIA), arrived at the track and declared he would make a "walking tour" of the 2½-mile layout.

The day's program had already been delayed because there were insufficient numbers of marshals and Langford's walk meant a further delay.

The FIA made similar inspection tours of the track prior to both Saturday's and Sunday's programs as well, leaving both track and USAC officials bewildered.

"It's abnormal," Mosport president Harvey Hudes said Sunday. "The normal practice is for the track inspection to be made a week to two months before the event, not the day of the events."

Hudes refused to be drawn into the reasons behind the unusual FIA inspection but there were rumors that it stems from Mosport's suit against the FIA, Labatt's breweries and the Canadian Automobile Sports Club (CASC) for not being included in the organization of this year's Canadian Grand Prix race in October.

BID FAILS After an unsuccessful bid to move the event to Toronto, 60 miles to the west, race organizers now are attempting to run it in Montreal. Mosport's claim is that it has a contract with Labatt's and CASC to organize the race in this country.

Hudes admitted Sunday that on Langford's first walk around the track, he pointed out a number of problem areas.

"He was rightly concerned about some areas of the track, but these were prepared to his satisfaction Friday night after the program was completed."

He said he was at odds to explain why the FIA track inspector did not arrive until Friday morning.

"The normal attitude in these cases is that track inspections are usually made early so that when there are any shortcomings we have time to remedy them."

King concurred with the delay in the start of Friday's program due to a shortage of course workers, but added:

"It had nothing to do with Langford. We had not started practice before he arrived (Friday)."

The USAC president, who is also USAC's director of competitions, said he had done his track inspection Wednesday and ruled it fit for racing.

"I didn't see any problems. We anticipated a shortage of people (marshals), and that's what occurred."

Hudes admitted that because most race tracks in North America rely on volunteer workers, the shortage Friday was not unforeseen. He said a number of people expected to help out were unavailable for one reason or another.

"But we'd rounded up sufficient numbers and were ready to go at 12:15," more than three hours after the scheduled start of the program.

Similar delays were experienced Saturday and Sunday, although not of as lengthy a duration since there was adequate track personnel on both days.

Problems

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — A hostile mob, gathered to watch Sunday's Indy car race at the Mosport road course, stoned police as they attempted to arrest a man who had earlier rolled his van.

Police were able to apprehend the man and charge him with dangerous driving, but at least two policemen were injured in the skirmish and two police cars extensively damaged by stones and rocks.

Insp. Doug Bullock of Durham regional police said such isolated incidents were to be expected, but in this particular case police were at a disadvantage because "most of the crowd were with them."

The van was subsequently "put to the torch" as were a couple of other cars in the area.

Bullock said there was nothing police could do about them, but subpoenas had been issued for the arrest of several persons involved in the earlier incident.

"You've got to expect with a crowd this size you're going to have about 50 animals," Bullock said. "Unfortunately they are all gathered in the same area."

Durham regional police established a track headquarters here for the first time, primarily for the purpose of being available if track security is unable to handle a given situation.

Bullock said there was too much time wasted driving to and from the track at previous major race events whenever police had been called.

Fire was the principal menace at Mosport during the weekend.

"Somebody torched a gasoline-soaked tire and it set fire to one of the poles," the track security man said.

Italy continues to lead World Cup

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — Italy underlined the growing power of their challenge for the 1978 World Cup when they beat Argentina 1-0 Saturday with second-half goal from Roberto Betegga.

Betegga played a sweetonetwo with his young striking partner Paolo Rossi on the edge of the penalty area and moved forward to beat Argentine goalkeeper Ubaldo Fillol with a low shot.

Italy, the only country to win all three first-round matches, topped Group One and go into the same second round group as West Germany who earlier struggled to a goalless draw with Tunisia.

Argentina, who wanted to win Saturday's match to stay in Buenos Aires for the second round, must now move to the northern port city of Rosario. They will be in the same group as Poland who topped Group Two by beating Mexico 3-1 Saturday.

The Italians have won the World Cup twice, but their last success was 40 years ago. Now, under the skilful guidance of manager Enzo Bearzot, Italy has emerged as the best allround team in the tournament.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS Poland had anxious moments in its 3-1 victory over revitalised Mexico. Poland topped its group with five points, one more than West Germany.

But it was Tunisia who stole the glory Saturday.

Tunisia had earlier become the first African representatives to win a match in World Cup finals when they beat Mexico 3-1 but even this was dwarfed by their feat in holding West Germany.

Zbigniew Boniek was Poland's shooting star, putting Poland ahead in the 42nd minute and sealing victory with his side's third goal seven minutes from the end.

Skipper Kazimierz Deyna scored a stunning second goal for Poland in the 56th minute, five minutes after Victor Rangel had netted the Mexican equaliser.

Tunisia finished third in Group Two with three points.

Canada's sole medal for 200m in Pravda

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (CP) — Dacre Bowen of Vancouver won Canada's only medal at Pravda track and field meet Saturday, finishing third in the men's 200 metres with a time of 21.36 seconds.

Sylvio Leonard, Cuba's double World Cup finalist, won the event in 20.04 while Bernhard Sanft of East Germany was second in 21.20.

Bowen had to come from behind to pick up the bronze medal, nipping another Cuban, Oswaldo Lara, at the wire.

"This is my first 200 since last summer and almost everyone was four or five years older," Bowen said. "What pleased me most was to place well in such a good field. With more work in the next few weeks, my time will come down quite a bit."

Canada had two second-place finishes in the B section of some women's events.

Joyce Yakubovich of Victoria placed second in the 200 metres with a time of 24.69 seconds, 38 seconds behind winner Asuncion Acosta of Cuba. The A heat was won by Jarmila Kratochvilova of Czechoslovakia in 23.50 while Vancouver's Patty Loverbeck finished fifth in 24.14.

In the B section of the women's 800 metres, Anne Mackie-Morelli of Vancouver took the early lead before finishing second to East Germany's Gabriella Peters, who won in 2:05.39.

Pentathlete Diane Jones-Konihowski of Edmonton was seventh in the women's high jump, clearing 1.75 metres, 12 metres behind winner Andrea Matay of Hungary.

Chualo given break on defending title

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian heavyweight boxing champion George Chualo of Toronto has been given a three-month extension to the deadline for defence of his title, the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation announced Sunday.

A CPBF meeting Saturday ordered Chualo to defend against either Trevor Berbick of Halifax or Hoss Gelsler of Toronto by Sept. 30. The boxing body also sanctioned a proposed June 28 contest between Gelsler and Berbick in Halifax as a heavyweight elimination bout, with the winner to meet Chualo.

Chualo last defended his crown against Earl McLeay of Calgary last December. CPBF president Ron Hayter of Edmonton said the matter of woman boxers also was discussed.

WON'T RULE AGAINST "It was decided that at this time the federation would not prohibit lady boxers, but it also would not encourage their use in Canada," Hayter said.

"Most of the member commissions believe it is a novelty which will soon fade and it doesn't make sense to overreact. Frankly, boxing is not a sport which is going to attract a mad rush of female participants."

The federation established a three-member committee to review the matter and recommend possible guidelines for female boxing. The committee, made up of Jim Trifunov of Winnipeg, Dave Brown of Vancouver and Dave Johnson of Halifax, will report at the CPBF annual meeting in Edmonton in September.

Concern was raised about some managers of boxers being involved behind the scenes in the financial promotion of fight cards. "We don't know at this time whether there is any substance to the complaints, but we intend to look closely into the matter," Hayter said.

If the concern is confirmed, he said, strong action will be taken at the annual meeting to stop such activities.

Reds forge 6-4 victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS Surging Tom Seaver, backed by three Cincinnati home runs, won his sixth-straight game Saturday with a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Seaver, continuing to recover from a slow start that did not produce a victory until May 6, improved his record to 7-4 with the long-ball support and a tie-breaking single by Ken Griffey in the eighth inning.

Joe Morgan then hit his eighth homer of the season in the seventh inning to set the stage for Griffey's game-winning hit.

In other National League games, Vida Blue and San Francisco Giants edged New York Mets 2-1 with the help of three errors by shortstop Tim Lincecum.

Dave Winfield clubbed a pair of three-run homers and Rolfe Fingers notched his 14th save as San Diego Padres snapped a four-game losing streak with a 10-8 victory over Chicago Cubs.

JAYS BLANKED Larry Hale singled three times and knocked in three runs and Sal Bando hit a pair of sacrifice flies to back Bill Travers' five-hit pitching, leading Milwaukee Brewers to a 5-0 victory over Toronto Blue Jays.

In Langley on Saturday night — 2000 youths with no Place to Go

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP) — Community leaders are pushing creation of a centre for teenagers to curb a rapidly growing vandalism problem in this Fraser Valley community near Vancouver.

Mayor W. G. Duckworth said in an interview the vandalism problem has escalated about 125 per cent during the past few years.

One pair of youths have caused about $10,000 damage with paint spray bombs during the past year.

"They do all sorts of things, like breaking windows, ripping up landscaping, using spray cans, wrecking street lights and knocking over signs," Duckworth said.

Reverend Frank Schmitt of the local Lutheran church thinks the answer may lie in an old barn two kilometres from city centre.

The proposal, currently being considered by council, is to take the barn which the city is purchasing from a private party, and renovate it, at a cost of $70,000.

WORK VOLUNTEER

Much of the work would be volunteer, Schmitt said, and most would be done by the teenagers themselves, to give them a feeling of ownership.

"We would have volunteer adult supervisors, but the work crews would be teenagers, perhaps on an apprenticeship program and we would also expect to use technical-vocational school students for draughting and pre-framing," he said.

Schmitt estimated the volunteer labor would take about $20,000 off an estimated cost of $90,000 for the renovations, leaving $70,000 to be collected by grants and fund-raising efforts—a further chance to involve youth.

He said, the centre would be governed by an 18-member board of governors, composed of nine adults and nine teenagers—all elected by the teenagers.

"Members would also agree to a code of behavior when they joined—liquor, drugs, coarse language, ordering (food or drink) from off-premises, and proper attire," Schmitt said.

WOULD SUPERVISE

Supervision would be supplied by volunteer adult couples, who would mingle with the teenagers, being available for consultation when needed.

"We would also hope off-duty police would drop in from time to time for coffee and perhaps those on duty could also come in once in awhile, and develop some rapport with the teens," Schmitt said.

Schmitt said the vandalism problem is caused by boredom and large numbers of youths.

"It's not uncommon to find up to 2,000 teenagers in Langley on a Friday or Saturday night, wandering around with nothing to do," he said.

Duckworth said a couple of sites are under consideration for the youth centre, but most are simply vacant land which would force the supporters for the centre to construct a new building, at considerably greater cost than that involved in renovating the barn.

However, he said, the city is presently paying off a $150,000 mortgage on the barn property and, if it were moved out of the land bank, "a hefty payment might have to be made."

He said the agreement with the former owner calls for such a payment in the event that the land is developed, and the teen centre might qualify as a development.

Test plant for coal urged for B.C. Hydro

Consultants have recommended that B.C. Hydro build and operate a demonstration power plant using pressurized fluidized bed combustion of coal.

The consultants, who were studying the feasibility of building a demonstration plant to employ advanced coal-use technology, have suggested a fluidized bed furnace powering a gas turbine and a 70-megawatt generator connected to Hydro's transmission system.

The project would scale up this technique from present small experimental models and give Hydro realistic operating data for full-sized coal-fired thermal generating plants of the future.

The recommendation is the result of a one-year study undertaken on behalf of Hydro, and the federal Ministry of Energy, Mines and Resources by Coal Processing Consultants, of England, assisted by Intercontinental Engineering Ltd. and Acres Consulting Services Ltd., both of Vancouver.

Their assignment was to study the possible use of either low grade Hat Creek coal or rejects from metallurgical coals under three developing technologies — gasification into substitute natural gas for general use; gasification into low-Btu gas turbine fuel, or combustion in a pressurized fluidized bed furnace for power generation.

In a pressurized fluidized bed combustion furnace, a bed of burning coal and ash is supported in a loose fluid state by high pressure air injected through nozzles from below. Crushed limestone is added to absorb sulphur and reduce undesirable emissions. The hot exhaust gases are cleaned of dust particles and are piped to drive a turbine connected to a generator.

The consultants estimate the cost of the suggested 70-megawatt experimental plant at $36 million but say some of its operating expense could be offset by the value of the power it would provide to the provincial transmission grid.

The consultants reported that it should not be necessary to build a demonstration plant for conversion of coal to synthetic natural gas, because this technique has been demonstrated in other countries. If Hydro wishes later to gasify coal to help meet the demand for natural gas, the suitability of Canadian coals could be tested and engineers could be trained in plants outside Canada, they said.

If Hydro chooses to develop generation with a coal gasifier and a low-Btu gas turbine, the smallest practical demonstration plant, with a 12-megawatt generator, could be built for about $56 million, the consultants reported.

But their recommendation was that effort should be concentrated on development of pressurized fluidized bed combustion because of the apparent potential for lower costs, increased efficiency and reduced environmental impacts.

New lease on life for Skylab

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — U.S. space scientists added months to the life of the Skylab space station Sunday, opening the way for astronauts to save it from a potentially dangerous dive back to Earth.

If Congress approves the mission, astronauts will fly up to the 85-ton giant late next year and attach a rocket to either raise the orbit or propel the station harmlessly back to earth over an ocean area.

Otherwise, Skylab, the world's largest man-made satellite, could make an uncontrolled re-entry as early as next spring and space officials fear it could shower populated areas with chunks of debris.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) says the chances of the satellite's causing death or damage are remote, but it conducted Sunday's life-prolonging exercise as a precaution.

FINAL COMMAND

Scientists at the Space Centre here commanded the spaceship's gyroscopes to tilt Skylab's nose down about 10 degrees so that it now flies parallel to the earth, small end forward. The command was the final one in a week-long series of manoeuvres.

Bob Aller, Skylab coordinator, said the successful move Sunday would reduce the atmospheric drag, which is slowly tugging Skylab toward the earth from its 387-kilometre-high outpost.

Since the last team of astronauts abandoned it in orbit in 1974, the station has dropped 54 kilometres. It now is in a thickening atmosphere and the tug is getting stronger.

Aller said it will take about six weeks of tracking to determine just how much time has been added to Skylab's life. Estimates range from six to 12 months.

The NASA official said he hopes the successful exercise will have a favorable impact on Congress, which must approve funds for the rocket the astronauts would carry up to the station in a space shuttle.

MIGHT CHANGE MINDS
The House of Representatives appropriations committee recently voted against $20.5 million for the rocket, saying it did not think Skylab would stay up long enough for a shuttle to reach it in time. But members said they might change their minds if the manoeuvre made Sunday were a success.

If the go-ahead is given, the astronauts would make the attempt in October, 1979, on the third scheduled shuttle flight.

The controllers executed Sunday's move after overcoming a command problem that on Friday had sent the station into an uncontrolled roll for a tense 90 minutes before they regained the upper hand.

Skylab was manned in 1973 and 1974 by three different three-man astronaut crews for periods of 28, 59 and 84 days. The station had been dormant for more than four years before NASA decided to mount the life-prolonging effort after it became apparent the ship would plunge from orbit at least two years earlier than originally anticipated.

Five face tough paddling

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four Britons and an American will spend six weeks paddling kayaks around the Aleutian Islands in Alaska.

Derek Hutchinson, leader of the expedition, said his team will leave Dutch Harbor on Unalaska Island next week and paddle about 490 kilometres to Nikolski on the western tip of Unimak Island.

The four Britons—Hutchinson, David Hollowell, Phil Walton and Dave Raaburn—stopped off here this week on their way to Dutch Harbor. George Peck, of the U.S., has spent the last week in Dutch Harbor looking after the kayaks.

Hutchinson said their toughest problem will be weather.

Winds in the Aleutians can reach 160 kilometres an hour and tidal streams between the islands can travel up to 10 knots.

The single-man fibreglass kayaks, designed and built in England, are about five metres long and 52 centimetres wide. They weigh 250 pounds fully loaded.

The design was developed from an earlier model used in a successful crossing of the North Sea from England to Belgium in 1976.

Hutchinson and Hollowell were part of that expedition, which travelled 180 kilometres in 31 hours.

The team will conduct several field tests on outdoor equipment, film wildlife and produce an illustrated book of their journey.

"Our main purpose, though, is to paddle one of the oldest routes in the world," said Hutchinson. "Some of the finest sea-kayak men anywhere came from the Aleutian Islands."

Must work in unsafe building

VANCOUVER (CP) — The attorney-general's office has ordered 27 probation workers to return to a downtown office building declared unsafe and unsanitary by a safety committee and a labor department inspector, the British Columbia Government Employees Union said Friday.

The threat of job action by the employees late in May resulted in the probation office being moved to temporary quarters in the nearby traffic court building.

John Fryer, general secretary of the union, said the inspector found that rusted fire escapes were insecurely anchored to the building, electrical circuits were overloaded and there were serious structural problems.

Fryer said there was insufficient lighting and ventilation and insufficient and inoperable sanitary facilities.

"Management is hiding behind a technicality in the collective agreement which says our members can refuse to work under unsafe conditions provided the hazards have been identified by a Workers' Compensation Board inspection," Fryer said.

"In this case, the WCB has no jurisdiction since the health and safety hazards indicated here come under the jurisdiction of the occupational environment department."

Briefs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two 17-year-old Vancouver youths were charged with second-degree murder Saturday in the fatal beating of Yew Chew Chan, 46, whose body was found earlier in the day in some shrubbery along a city street.

Charged were Martin Darrel Narcisse and Paul Earl Brown.

Police said the attack was witnessed by several persons.

THAT'S BIG OF THEM
LONDON (CP) — Two airline employees who found illegal herbal cannabis worth $12,500 ($25,000) in the cargo hold of a 747 have been rewarded by customs with $5 each, Derek Doughty and Paul Gibbs said. "We've been rewarded with peanuts for our efforts." Later, a customs spokesman said: "If they contact us we may consider increasing their reward."

MEN WANT EQUAL PAY
HITCHIN, England (CP) — Sub-officer Dick Doland and fireman Alan Patmore, fulltime firemen at Hitchin, Herts, have taken Herts county council to an industrial tribunal. They want to have equal pay with women fire fighters who, they say, get a higher annual allowance than they do.

Today's Cryptogram clue: X equals I

The Cryptogram is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 13, 1978
What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
A day for some reflection, digging in to reappraise conditions. Be ready, nevertheless, to move ahead when situations so demand.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Study reasons for existing limitations. Concentrate on significant issues without neglecting minor items. A good day for taking unusual steps.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊
Good opportunities indicated but you, of course, must be alert to them. Use trump cards strategically; aim to score as often as possible.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋
Keep emotions under stern control so as to insure better judgment in difficult situations. Further admonitions: Don't overtax yourself; don't overelaborate in handling details.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
If suggestions offered do not seem feasible, rule them out. Do not become too forceful in expressing views, but do stand by principles.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
It will be important to distinguish between facts and theories; also between facts and rumors. Before taking action, be sure where you're headed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Don't depart abruptly from a well-planned schedule, except where emergency so requires. Road may be bumpy in part, but rewards will be sweeter.

Student summer job situation not promising, stats say

By BILL LEVITT
The Canadian Press
Students seeking summer employment find little comfort in recent statistics showing a decline in the jobless rate for the first time in six months.

Although Statistics Canada estimates showed the over-all jobless rate fell to 9.3 per cent in April, the rate rose to 16.1 per cent for men aged 15-24. The rate for women the same age fell slightly but still was 15.4 per cent.

A Canadian Press survey of employment centres across Canada indicated the situation for students this summer is not promising.

In Manitoba, where Premier Sterling Lyon's Progressive Conservatives were elected recently after promising to cut government spending, the province will hire 40 per cent fewer students than last year.

Terry Hampson, manager of special employment services for the Manitoba government, said no more than 2,000 students would be hired, down from 3,400 last year.

More than 5,000 students have applied for provincial jobs and Hampson said applications are expected to climb to 12,000. The provincial minimum wage of $2.95 an hour is paid for most jobs.

BUILDING FREEZE HURTS

The construction industry, hit hard by the Manitoba government's building freeze, will not have many openings, said G. L. Greasley, executive director of the Winnipeg Construction Association.

Last year, the industry had about 2,000 summer openings "but this year there's going to be 10 people going after every job," Greasley said.

In Alberta, the influx of workers from across the country may make it tougher for students, said Dave Cantera, director of provincial Student Temporary Employment Program.

There are approximately 4,000 people coming to Alberta every month, Cantera said, and firms prefer to hire permanent staff.

Jim Cornell, a provincial manpower planner, said figures covering a five-month period last year showed that of 104,000 students age 15-24, 9,000 couldn't find employment.

Jobs are available in forestry, tourism, civic administration, veterinary medicine and agriculture with the average salary expected to be $4 an hour, $1 over the provincial minimum wage.

GAMES WILL HELP

A number of jobs are expected during the Commonwealth Games this August in Edmonton.

In Saskatchewan, Beverly

Crossman, president of the Regina Students Union, said both permanent and summer jobs are scarce.

She predicted student unemployment in Regina may rise to 25 per cent this year from 15-20 per cent in 1977.

Kathie Swalm, executive vice-president of the University of Saskatchewan Students Union, said more than 23 per cent of the 108,000 full-time students at the Saskatoon institution will be jobless.

Larry Kram, manpower assistant at the youth employment centre there, said many employers still are not certain of their requirements due to the uncertain economic situation. Most jobs pay the provincial minimum rate of $3.25 an hour.

In Quebec and Ontario, figures on student employment are scarce.
